Thank you for considering your choice of working with “Neodoxy Studios”, which is a complementary recording and mastering facility based in Hampshire, UK, privately owned and formed by Milos Kovalevsky, songwriter, composer, independent producer and record engineer. Should you wish to get in touch with us, please send in your specific inquiry to <studios@neodoxy.com>.

We are part of “HastenFreakout Media Group”, an independent media production company, artist management and PR, marketing and entertainment agency, which focuses its attention on creating potential music investment opportunities, whilst developing ambitious projects of solo artists and small groups of musicians, providing the assistance in branding strategies and giving other support such as, preparing artists technically and mentally to a real world of entertainment, uplifting them spiritually and boosting their confidence in performance. We design and unlock their potential through our own approach to structural song writing of commercially valuable music, with clever use of production techniques and dedicated record engineering skill. We do also provide help with other creative side of things like, producing video show reels, model photography, music video, interviews, business planning and graphic and web design work. In case some of our work is outsourced, we ensure valid consistency and cost effectiveness across each entire project management process.
